

Private Vocational School Orientation

Workforce Training and Education Coordinating Board

Private Career Schools - History

- Washington's Private Vocational Schools Act was passed as a consumer protection law in 1986. The law protects students who enroll in private career school programs offering credentials below the degree level.
- The Workforce Board licenses and regulates more than 300 private career schools doing business in the state of Washington. The agency also investigates student complaints and administers the Tuition Recovery Trust Fund that reimburses students affected by a school closure.
- These schools offer a variety of career and technical training programs, such as massage therapy, boat building, healthcare, information technology, truck driving, and many more.

Private Career Schools – What to do

- How to become a Private Vocational School
 - Do you meet the requirements to be a Private Career School, take the “self test”, the license determination questionnaire
 - Download the orientation materials
 - Watch this online orientation and/or participate in a monthly webinar
 - Request a logon & password from staff
 - Complete your online application
 - Send in your initial license fee and TRTF deposit
 - Submit your application documents for review
 - An on-site visit from a program manager
- The process takes 60 days on average but can take longer depending on the school’s response time to changes and amount of pending applications.
For additional help, contact staff for monthly group orientation scheduling.

Private Career Schools – The Law

The first pieces of the packet are RCW 28C.10 and WAC 490-105. These are the rules and regulations that govern our Private Vocational School Act.

Let's get started...

Initial License Checklist

This checklist will guide you through the complete new school application process step by step. This checklist is a key element in the packet. It has everything that needs to be completed and submitted to our agency to open a Private Vocational School.

- It contains six separate sections
 - Business Plan
 - Training Programs
 - Catalog
 - Enrollment Agreement/Contract
 - Financials
 - Student Records-Data Collection

Section 1 – Business Plan

A business plan including:

1. School description with photos
2. Management and operations
3. Marketing and sales strategies
4. Capital equipment and supply list
5. Market and competitive analyses
6. Loan information/credit line (if applicable)
7. Balance sheet
8. Breakeven analysis

Please submit a summary of each item, only 2-3 pages. We are looking for information on the sustainability of your proposed school.

*If you are an Out-of-State school, please submit copies of license(s) or other documentation showing that the applicant school is legally authorized to conduct business as a private vocational school in the state in which it is located.
